Evan shuts the doors, then the curtains. In a hushed tone...

EVAN

I know something. I'm not supposed to know. And I'm definitely not supposed to tell. So don't ask, cuz I won't tell you.

Hank steps to Evan, looks him in the eye.

HANK

Tell me right now or --

EVAN

Boris has a shark. In his basement.

Beat. Hank laughs.

EVAN (CONT'D)

Henry. I'm being serious.

Hank stops laughing, hearing Evan's tone.

EVAN (CONT'D)

I saw it. Up close, in person.

OFF Hank, taking this in...

12 EXT. HAMPTONS JITNEY STOP - DAY

12

Divya stands by her SUV (now without a scratch on it), watching passengers disembark. A COUPLE runs to one another, and meet in a passionate kiss. A GIRL leaps into the arms of her waiting BOYFRIEND, and he swings her around excitedly.

Divya bristles at the blatant PDA. Then RAJ, late 20s, steps off the bus. He's sweet and charming but all business. Divya gives him a light kiss. She looks at the bus, then at him.

RAJ

You're such a snob. It's the nicest bus I've ever been in.

DIVYA

How many buses have you been in?

RAJ

Including today? One. You really didn't have to meet me here.

DIVYA

I figured you'd need a decent half-caf iced soy vanilla latte.

She nods to a nearby COFFEE KIOSK, where a barista pours. He smiles. Divya knows him. They walk towards the kiosk.

RAJ

Are you alright? Were you hurt?

DIVYA

It was a scooter accident. I was fine and the car was just a bit scratched.

RAJ

You had it at the shop first thing this morning, didn't you.

She smiles. Raj knows her. They grab their coffees, sit.

DIVYA

Tell me why Dad brought you here.

RAJ

Construction schedule for the London hotel. We can't seem to open it soon enough for his taste. He flew me in for a face-to-face.

DIVYA

But it's your taste that'll make the place work, whenever it opens.

RAJ

Can't wait for you both to see it.

Beat.

DIVYA

We'll be in London for the wedding...I guess.

RAJ

I hear our engagement-party announcements were mailed.

(then)

Is this really happening?

DIVYA

If we postpone the engagement again, he'll disown me.

RAJ
He'll make me part of the hotel's foundation. So I guess we better do it.

Divya forces a smile.

DIVYA
Raj --

RAJ
(interrupting)
I brought you something.

Raj reaches into his jacket pocket. Divya tenses as he shows her a beautiful, small box -- small enough for a ring.

DIVYA
Now? Our mothers both insisted you present that to me at the party.

RAJ
Just open it.

Divya, nervous, opens the box and...exhales. It's not a ring. She looks at it more closely, and then smiles big.

DIVYA
It's a tiny cricothyrotomy tube!

RAJ
And a necklace. A good-luck gift for your new business venture. I figured you'd get more use out of it than a polo mallet.

Stop.

13 EXT. KSI POND, SHADOW POND - DAY

HANK
You have a shark in your basement?

DIETER
(in German)
Sir. Shall I have him removed?

Boris shakes his head, motions Dieter to exit.

HANK
You called me over for a medical emergency, then lied to me about it.

~~Hank is paying full attention, his mind racing.~~

~~KATIE (CONT'D)~~

~~I should go. Be good to my girl.~~

~~HANK~~

~~I will.~~

~~KATIE~~

~~You better.~~

Katie boards the bus. Hank walks away, so deep in thought he almost bumps into a young man heading toward the stop with his luggage -- Raj. Hank leans against his car to think.

Divya arrives at the station in a hurry. She and Hank don't see each other. Raj approaches her, and she's confused to see him.

RAJ

I paged you. As a patient. I know I shouldn't have, but I thought it'd be the only way to say good-bye in person.

START

Divya's heart sinks. She feels terrible.

DIVYA

I'm sorry I was so busy.

RAJ

Was it a rewarding case, at least?

DIVYA

It was...enlightening.

RAJ

Good. That means it was worth it.

Raj gives Divya a peck on the cheek.

RAJ (CONT'D)

I'll be back soon.

Divya considers, then pulls Raj into a passionate kiss. But it seems clumsy and awkward, and a little tepid compared to the intense embraces of Javier and Sofia.

RAJ (CONT'D)

Sorry, I didn't expect that.

DIVYA

I just...

RAJ

No, thanks. I mean, it was great.
I just...I would stay, but I need to be in Mumbai on Tuesday, so...

DIVYA

Of course. I understand. Have a safe trip.

Raj nods, gets onto the bus. Divya waits for him to go before allowing her eyes to fill with tears. That's when she looks up and notices HANK WATCHING HER WITH GREAT SURPRISE.

STOP.

She smiles, tries for a moment to hide the tears, then gives up. Hank approaches.

HANK

Hey, you okay?

Divya finally lets the tears fall. Hank hugs her.

39 EXT. SHADOW POND DAY

39

Hank, with Evan, knocks on Boris' door. Dieter answers.

HANK

Dieter. I need to see Boris. Now.

DIETER

He departed. On an extended trip.

HANK

How extended?

DIETER

Indefinitely.

Dieter closes the door.

EVAN

Hank, what's going on.

Beat.

HANK

First, Boris alters his vaguely-medical research plans when he gets his blood results. Then, the blood mysteriously vanishes from the lab.
